Kia ora

We have such amazing tamariki at our school. This week I have had a meeting with Lucia, Indie, Kiera-El and Sophia who are passionate about saving native manu (birds). They have come up with a plan for fundraising for Zealandia. Watch the video to find out some more. They will also be on the radio and will have posters up around the school before the end of the week.

I have also had an email from Dylan who is very interested in decreasing ocean pollution. He has asked for information to be included for you all to read. It is in the yellow box, please take the time to read it.

Friends of Lyall Bay School are meeting on Wednesday this week. Please read the attached letter with more information about this important work. Friends and whānau – we are at crisis point and we really do need your support to continue our role here at Lyall Bay School. Please consider taking some time out of your year in 2022 to help us continue to support our tamariki, our school and our whānau connect and grow as a school community. For over 2 decades now, Friends of Lyall Bay School (FoLBS) has been supporting tamariki, their whānau and the wider community here at Lyall Bay School. We've been there organising discos, preparing artwork orders and raising money with the help of the school community every year - a small group of dedicated parents who meet on a regular basis to, not only give their time and skills to the ongoing management of FoLBS, but also to provide valuable insight and information that flows through into the wider school environment - from kaiako through to the Board of Trustees. In order for FoLBS to continue to support LBS, your help is needed. We are looking for more parents/caregivers to come on board with FoLBS in the New Year and help us continue to support LBS.

Friends of Lyall Bay School

By the end of this week all tamariki should have received their timely report comments. These are all on HERO for you to access, through 2021 Report or Timely Comment (and the year group). You can 'like' a post or even write a comment. If you cannot see a comment for Literacy (Reading and Writing), Maths and Ako for this half of the year, please contact the kaiako. At the end of the year you will also receive a post that explains the curriculum level your child is currently working at for reading, writing and maths. With this will be a graph that explains where the curriculum levels fit to year levels. As always, kaiako are only too happy to discuss anything about your child's learning. You can email, make an appointment to meet by calling the office, messaging the kaiako, sending a note with your child to set up a meeting or zoom. Please do not hesitate to contact kaiako for anything you wish to discuss throughout the year.

The Board and staff met last night to do some more work with the 2022-2024 Strategic Plan. At this point we have drafted two initiatives: Grow our People and Responsive Community. We are starting to develop some actions with these. A sub committee will be meeting to pull this together and the draft will then be sent out to you for further feedback. I would like to thank all who responded to the survey and those who worked as a team to refine all our ideas to where we are now. It is looking very exciting.

Along with this newsletter is a letter explaining some information around the Traffic light system. The Ministry of Education has advised all schools to stay with their Level 2 protocols until the end of the year. After that we will put in any changes that the Traffic light system guides us to. There is a letter attached with further information.

Principal

OCEAN POLLUTION – by Dylan

Billions of tons of plastic goes into our oceans and seas every year. One hundred million marine animals die of plastic waste every year alone. They die from getting tangled in plastic bags and getting plastic straws shoved down their throats.

If you see a piece of rubbish fly past you, please pick it up because you might be saving a sea creature's life. 40% of the world's ocean surfaces have rubbish in them. That's nearly half the ocean has rubbish in it. Also, the amount of rubbish that flows into our ocean is supposed to triple in 2040 to 29 million metric tons and there will be more plastic debris than marine life. A metric ton weighs 1000kg. That's as heavy as an American Bison. Some countries are trying their best to stop ocean pollution but some poor countries can't afford to buy bins and trucks to take out rubbish, so please don't blame countries when you see piles of rubbish in videos.

Here are some ways we can stop ocean pollution:

- Pick up rubbish
- Reduce. Stop using single use plastics, e.g, coffee cups, takeout containers and plastic bags.
- Reuse
- Recycle

If you recycle you're reusing and cutting down the amount of rubbish that goes into our seas and oceans, landfills as well. When you recycle you're converting waste into new, useful products, in other words. But remember to read the rules of how to recycle.

So, there are some ways we can stop ocean pollution. But remember we can't do this alone. We need everyone's help around the world to stop ocean pollution. If we do this now, your family in the future won't suffer from ocean pollution. After this we'll be

One Room Fan Museum:

The One Room Fan Museum is an homage to Lord of the Rings and a celebration of Wellington as the spiritual home of the films. There are lots of fan-made costumes for dressing up as elves, hobbits, warriors, wizards, princesses, etc, along with lots of replica kid-safe weapons such as swords, bows, axes and other fun props.

You certainly don't have to be a Lord of the Rings fan, but it does enrich the experience.

The website is theoneroomfanmuseum.nz

This has good info, including the Experience page which has lots of pics. I'm currently making a page dedicated to families and kids but in the meantime there's a blog page about this already:

<http://www.theoneroomfanmuseum.nz/new-blog/2021/2/18/lotrenchantskidstoo>

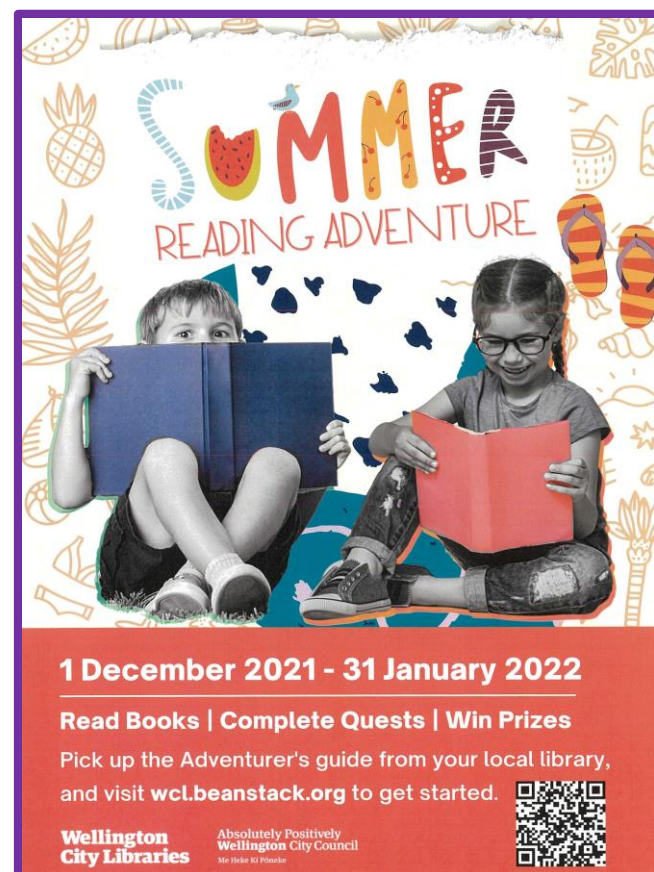

There's also a nifty wee video on Stuff about the Museum that is quite entertaining, though it features adults rather than kids:

<https://www.stuff.co.nz/entertainment/books/122089179/superfan-shares-a-little-bit-of-middle-earth-in-newtown>

Visits are limited to single groups as the Museum is only one room! Visits usually last 1-2 hours. I am always there to supervise, but kids do need to bring parents or caregivers (parents/caregivers usually dress up too, so it's mad fun for everyone).
